ombudsman Office forms student version of BBB

BYU's version of the Better Business Bureau has been established as part of the Ombudsman Office.

The Consumer Assistance Division will investigate complaints, supply information on businesses and educate students on purchasing.

According to Ian Neale, ASBYU Ombudsman and a senior from South Africa, the division will handle approximately 30 per cent of the 40 to 50 complaints brought to his office each month. As head of the division is senior Matthew Mack, a pre-law student from Los Angeles. A former student complaint investigator, Mack will serve as assistant to Neale who is responsible directly to ASBYU President Bill Billings.

The complaint investigation methods

Friday last day to add or drop

Students who wish to add classes have Friday to do so, said Kay Howard, registrar, Monday. In this time there has been a total of 5,000 add and drop cards turned in at the Registration Office, B162 ASB, Howard.

Procedure for adding and dropping the back of the add and drop card, only signatures needed are those of student and the teacher. These cards are picked up in the registration office on ASB.

For Friday there will be a late fee of $1 for students who still wish to drop classes. Students may drop classes until 2 p.m.

Students registered full time who have enough classes to make them eligible, and part-time students who have dropped classes may apply for a refund at the registration office. Students have to do this as soon as possible since it is a three per cent cut per day.

will be similar to those already employed by the office and "should surpass the effectiveness of a Better Business Bureau," said Neale.

"We will have personal meetings as opposed to only letters," he noted. "The Better Business Bureau does no personal investigating. We will be able to put one man on one problem with one student."

Because the name is incorporated by law, Neale could not use the familiar BBB title.

His corps of more than 25 investigators will attempt to improve consumer-business relations so that both receive equitable treatment.

The division will file information on businesses which have prompted investigations. The number of complaints and the merchants' degree of cooperation as well as positive reports will be included.

Both consumer and business viewpoints will be recorded and available to students.

Neale added the file will be limited to businesses with which his office will have dealt. As the program expands the amount of information available will increase in size and scope.

ANOTHER area of concern of the division is consumer advice. The emphasis will be to provide precautionary information before students commit themselves to substantial transactions.

Data will be gathered from local, state and federal agencies as well as other universities where consumer programs are operating.

According to Neale, the office's investigators have no coercive authority but try to solve problems with persuasion, reason and consideration.

"Our motto is impartiality. We can't risk taking sides."

Mack commented that "a few people in college towns are out to make a quick buck off of unknowing students." He explained his involvement in consumer protection resulted from "liking to wear a white hat."

Band polishes performance for Inauguration Day

In the last day of practice set aside, the BYU Cougar Band is ready to go to their spot in the Inauguration Day Parade in Washington, D.C. Saturday.

Band, according to Dr. Ralph C. Laycock, coordinator of instrumental activities for the Music Dept., will fly Washington Thursday with a new band and a piece written for the band.

"We are trying for a different-sounding sonorous effect," said Dr. Laycock. Placing the trumpets in both the band rear ranks, we have found we like this new sound."

Reported he had worked closely with the band to polish the new sound in their daily rehearsals. He is also composing an "Inaugural" piece to be played for the first time in public during the parade in the nation's capital.

The 130-member instrumental group ranked among the finest collegiate marching bands in the country—was invited to march in the Inaugural Parade by the Utah State Republican Committee and J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the President's inauguration committee.

Monson at devotional

Elder Thomas S. Monson of the Council of the Twelve will speak at today's devotional assembly at 10 a.m. in the Marriott Center.

Elder Monson has supervised the Italian, Swiss, Austrian and German missions since his appointment to the Council in 1963.

Sounding off

Marching in the cold outside or practicing in the warmth of the Marriott Center, the BYU Cougar Band prepares for the Jan. 20 Inauguration Day parade in Washington, D.C. The Band was invited to the parade by the Utah State Republican Committee and J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the President's inauguration committee. Funds for the trip include contribution from ASBYU, the University administration and the band itself. Each member will pay about $50 of the expenses.

According to University officials, the special inauguration composition, to the melody of "America the Beautiful," will "portray the majesty and splendor of the inauguration as the band marches past President Nixon and the reviewing stand on the steps of the Capitol building."

Prior to this he served in the Salt Lake Temple View Stake Presidency and as president of the Canadian Mission.

It will be played again at BYU Feb. 3 and 4 when the Marriott Center is formally dedicated.

Dr. Laycock said the melody will be heard in solemn cadence played by the lower brasses while above them will sound the trumpets placed front and rear—answering each other with cascades of brilliant fanfares tossed back and forth."

The band will leave by charter jet from Salt Lake City Thursday morning, spend a free day in Washington on Jan. 19 and march in the parade the next day. They are scheduled to return Jan. 21.

"Spirits in the band are high," said Band Director Fred Smith from Richland, Wash. "Our people play and march for the sheer love of it... and now they are going to perform for the President."

Belt route proposed

BYU students have been asked to submit suggestions and recommendations for a proposed 900 East arterial system in Provo.

The Utah State Highway Department, which has been commissioned by Provo City to provide an environmental impact study for planning, asked yesterday for discussion groups to gauge Provo resident attitudes on the belt route.

Officials say most of the traffic in northeast Provo is generated by or associated with BYU and the Provo LDS Temple. The daily volume, over 14,000 vehicles per day, was measured on 900 East between Center Street and 1700 North, they reported.

The objective of the proposed study is to find a route which will provide access and a direct route to BYU and handle the traffic associated with the peak traffic demands in that area.

Present conception of the arterial system is a four-lane urban road with a paved or paved shoulder and with access allowed along most portions of the route. Officials said the purpose of construction is to increase the capacity and safety of the presently over-taxed and congested street system near BYU.

ACCORDING to Sterling Davis of the State Highway Department, neighborhood discussion groups will be held in various areas throughout the city "to obtain information from the residents on their attitudes toward this corridor study and roadway location."

The department, located at 825 No. 900 W. (225-5520) in Orem, will be soliciting response until Feb. 16.

Several routes have been suggested, including the extension of 2230 North from the BYU Diagonal to 200 West, then upgrading and widening portions of 2230 North and 900 East to a four-lane facility. If this route is chosen, a small amount of new right-of-way will be necessary for widening and new construction, according to Highway Department officials.

Other alternatives involve 1650 North, 2950 North, 1200 East, 700 East, one-way streets, or various combinations of these.

The highway department hopes to have the environmental impact statement off the press by mid-March. Target date for the preliminary or corridor hearing is May 1.

'it's a baby'

A baby girl, who couldn't decide when to be born, became a police matter Sunday.

Terry Hunt rushed his wife to the hospital about 2 a.m. when she experienced labor pains. But doctors told the Hunt's that it wasn't time, and they could return home. Shortly before 5 a.m. the Hunts called for an ambulance but Orem Police Officer Merril Finlayson got there first. So did the baby.

Finlayson called on a little used part of police training and delivered the girl.

A spokesman for the Utah Valley Hospital said the baby was "doing fine."

Nixon halts offensive acts in North

BY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon halted all bombing, mining and shelling of North Vietnam Monday, citing progress in Henry A. Kissinger's peace negotiations. He said the "unilateral gesture" entered by Nixon sent peace signals soaring and came amid a deluge of reports that agreement to the war had been reached and would be signed soon.

The Florida White House said to discuss the reports of agreement, stressing instead "negotiations are in progress."

Watergate: The right thing to do?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four defendants in the Watergate headquarters bugging pleaded guilty Monday, they had done their job not my but because it was "the thing to do."

their removal from the trial is only George Gordon Liddy, er counsel for the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and James W. McCord, the re-election committee's only chief, as defendants in case that started with seven charged. E. Howard Hunt Jr., former White House consultant, fled guilty Wednesday.

Their lawyers moved for a trial on grounds that the jury might be left wondering why five of the original seven defendants only were removed from the federal judge trying the

and that Kissinger would head back to Paris "in the relatively near future."

Nixon's order was announced by press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and was seen as a sign that the President was satisfied with the outcome of Kissinger's six days of negotiations last week with Hanoi's Le Due Tho.

The order to halt all offensive operations in North Vietnam effective at 10 a.m. EST Monday was transmitted Sunday night, Ziegler said, following an case turned down the motions, and Thomas Gregory the last witness on the stand—was brought in for cross-examination.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica questioned the four defendants closely before accepting their guilty plea on all extensive presidential assessment of the Kissinger negotiations.

He said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was informed and consulted in advance. Congressional leaders also were informed several hours before the decision was announced.

Ziegler said shelling by Navy ships also was banned. Mines already dotted Haiphong harbor and other North Vietnamese ports will remain in place, he said, and will be the subject of negotiations.

As he responded to questions, Ziegler referred several times to "negotiations which are in progress" and "negotiations which are under way." His phrasing, coupled with disclosure that Kissinger would return to Paris soon, appeared to imply that some details of an agreement were yet to be hammered out.

Winkle guilty, says jury

James Walter Winkle, 31, of Provo, was found guilty of two counts of murder after about two hours of deliberation by a 12-member jury Monday.

Winkle had been charged with two counts of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of Lillian Anderson, 16, Provo, and Kimberly Anderson, 17, Orem.

Fourth District Court Judge George E. Ballif set sentencing for Tuesday, Jan. 23 in the District Court. Arguments for the prosecution and the defense were heard before the case went to the jury.

Before releasing the case to the jury, Ballif told the jurors five verdicts were possible, first-degree murder, second-degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, not guilty by reason of insanity and not guilty.

Winkle had pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

nothing like 11 on a Richter of 10 hit the Wilkinson room Friday night. In memory became a reality as a Cadillac and the Continental not only played but belved Fabulous 50's in two minute shows that never failed to delight their audience. Between a screaming intro that ended with "Sailin' Cruisin'" and a pandemonium finale of "Any B. Goode," something special happened. Scratched and tattered Fender guitars, laid in amp covers, a dented phone looking like something out of a rock shop and appropriate 50's dress by both the band and the audience somehow threw an air of foolishness and for events and purposes, this was a high school rock hop, and space age was just a notion.

BUT a BYU audience that had nestled itself to dancing on the sodden floor during the second half, broke into pandemonium as Butch, Spike, Eddie, Angelo, Rockin' Rico and Flash launched into "Johnny B. Goode," changed into the "Mickey Mouse Club Theme" and then returned for hysteria to the Chuck Berry classic. Group members rolled and kicked off the stage, skyjumped off the amplifiers and finally built a pyramid composed of instruments and musicians alike before leaving an audience that yelled for what may have been the sincerest BYU demand (and I do mean demand) for an encore.

NCAA appoints Watts, unveils rules changes

The NCAA chose BYU Athletic Director Stan Watts for its Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament Committee during last week's NCAA meeting in Chicago.

Watts will assume his position on the eight-man committee Sept. 1 and will serve for three years.

Watts expressed happiness at his appointment to the prestigious committee.

The Athletic Director and Dean Milton L. Harrington of the College of Physical Education made up the BYU contingent to the NCAA conference which ran from Jan. 11-13.

During the meetings, the NCAA also acted to cut the number of basketball eligibles (fresh and varsity) to 18. Football eligibles will now be limited to 105.

"The limitation will hurt us where it won't other schools because of our mission program," predicted Watts.

He said BYU will now be able to recruit only six new players per year (in addition to the 12 on the varsity roster). Watts said: "Many of these will go on LDS missions and perhaps be lost to the program."

Asked if the change would cause an increase in junior college recruiting by BYU, Watts said, "We're still primarily interested in the four-year program, but we'll still have to go to the JC's to get quick reinforcement where we have holes in our program."

Watts also indicated the new limit would probably reduce the practice of red-shirting, since even red-shirts would count in the total.

In other action, the NCAA dumped the 1.6 rule for incoming athletes. The rule provided for an eligibility table for athletes, based on a combination of grade point and prediction of future work based on ACT scores.

The new standard demands the athlete's high school keep an accurate record of his GPA, which must be above 2.0, to compete at an NCAA member school.

"Abolishing the 1.6 rule will be a good thing for college athletics because of the elimination of all the bookkeeping that was required," said Watts.

Archibald heads NBA star picks

NEW YORK (AP) - Nate "Tiny" Archibald, Kansas City-Omaha's speedy little guard who leads the National Basketball Association in scoring and playmaking, heads the list of players chosen for the West team for the 23rd annual NBA All-Star Game in Chicago, Jan. 23.

Archibald, averaging 33.2 points and 11.7 assists per game, will be joined in the starting lineup by center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, forwards Spencer Haywood of Seattle and Rick Barry of Golden State and guard Jerry West of Los Angeles.

Also chosen for the team were Portland center Sidney Wicks, Los Angeles center Wilt Chamberlain and Phoenix guard Charlie Scott.

The starting team for the East will be composed of Boston's Dave Cowens at center, New York's Dave DeBusschere and Boston's John Havlicek at forward and New York's Walt Frazier and Atlanta's Pete Maravich at guard.

GUNSMITHING

Gunsmithing is a first at BYU. This course promises to be one of the finest in Utah Valley. This year don't wait until two weeks before the deer hunt to repair that favorite hunting weapon. Avoid that costly repair and use these funds to pay your tuition to the Brigham Young University gunsmithing class. If you don't have a gun to work on, we will lend you one. However, each participant should bring a project; anything from a BB gun to a cannon will do. Topics to be covered are
